

WILLIAMSON COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

The Williamson Community Leadership Program (WCLP) is a unique, immersive, 10 month-long program for experienced leaders.

For over 35 years, the program has brought together diverse groups of experienced leaders from all sectors - business, government, community - and a wide variety of backgrounds, experiences and identities.

Often described as life-changing, the program expands the way leaders see the world and elevates the way they exercise leadership. It also pushes them to experiment – continually challenging how and why they lead – while building a trusted, life-long network.

Program graduates join our community of 1400+ Williamson Fellows who hold significant leadership roles across Victoria and beyond, all committed and ready to ‘take the call’ to support each other and the community.

The Williamson Program is the most immersive, challenging and complete leadership experience you will ever have. Active participation will be rewarded in ways you cannot imagine - new ideas, lifelong connections and the potential for future impact far beyond the program.

RETHINK LEADERSHIP. CREATE LASTING IMPACT.

Our face-to-face format, complemented by seasoned leaders as speakers, field trips and peer-to-peer learning, creates an environment which challenges preconceived notions of leadership and the limitations of leading within formal positions of authority. As a result, the program will push you to experiment – continually considering how and why you lead, while building a trusted, life-long network.

ADAPTIVE LEADERSHIP

Learn techniques to adapt and thrive in complex and uncertain environments.

COLLABORATE

Work with diverse and seasoned leaders to tackle complex challenges.

VALUES, ETHICS & BELIEFS

Reflect on values and assumptions to navigate ethical leadership and decision-making.

NETWORK & CONNECT

Build strategic personal and professional networks, and forge deep connections with peers from across all sectors.

COMMUNITY

Explore key issues affecting Victorian communities and apply leadership insights to drive change.

Williamson is such a unique, compelling program that places you in the centre of a Venn diagram, highlighting your potential influence in the community, workplace and society.

Williamson gave me a unique opportunity to really shift my perception and understanding of what contemporary leadership is. It's confronting, uncomfortable and revelatory, sometimes all at the same time. Williamson is so critically important to be an exceptional leader, in work and in life.

WHO SHOULD APPLY?

Applications are encouraged from leaders from business, government and community contexts, and from a diverse range of backgrounds, experiences, abilities and identities.

Participants in the Williamson Community Leadership Program are selected on merit, considering both your professional and lived experience. The program is designed for leaders who:

- Have 10+ years leadership experience in the workplace and/or other areas of life.
- Are seeking a meaningful, transformative uplift in their leadership capability.
- Are curious and keen to have more impact in their organisation and the broader community.
- Will bring valuable and diverse professional and life experiences to enrich the peer group.
- Are seeking an experiential learning opportunity, with a practical, activity-based approach.
- Are willing to be challenged, and able to commit time, effort and an open mind.
- Have a sense of their ethical self and want to contribute to a better world.

A limited number of full and partial scholarships are available for leaders from / who work with communities that face marginalisation.

Before doing WCLP I considered myself an experienced and accomplished leader in my sector. Through doing WCLP I learned how connection, clarity of purpose and understanding of the biggest issues facing our community right now can both inspire and accelerate my contribution in ways that are more meaningful and impactful. I also now have a broader network of friends who challenge and encourage me to bring my best always.
